

Week 2 - Wolf Brother

Monday - LI: To identify and use devices to build cohesion within a paragraph

Tuesday - LI: To identify personification to create a vivid picture in the reader's mind.

Wednesday - LI: To use personification in my writing.

Thursday - LI: To explore how a writer develops characters through description and action.

Friday - LI: To develop characters through description and action.

Starter

Partner 1: Write a description of a character in the book using three simple sentences.

Partner 2: Draw the person on your whiteboard ONLY using the information you were given.

Is it enough detail?

What descriptions may we need to include so that the reader gets a vivid image in their mind?

What about this description?

Torak has light olive skin, and coal-black hair like his father's. His Wolf Clan Tattoos (which resemble that of a tiger) are on his cheeks, and are easy to make out due to the contrast of the tattoos against his skin. On his left cheek Torak has a light scar, cutting right across the dotted lines of his clan tattoo, which actually declares him Clanless.

LI: To explore how a writer develops characters through description and action

Success Criteria

- *I can identify how writers can describe characters physical features and actions.
- *I can explain how physical features and actions show personality.
- *I can begin to integrate action and description within sentences.

How does the author describe the character?

What features can we identify?

Keen senses, large canine teeth, powerful jaws, and the ability to pursue prey at 60 km (37 miles) per hour equip the gray wolf well for a predatory way of life. A typical northern male may be about 2 metres (6.6 feet) long, including the bushy half-metre-long tail.

Task 1

Today we are going to be planning a description that we are going to be writing about tomorrow.

We will be writing from TWO different viewpoints.

Paragraph 1 - Wolf

How would Wolf describe Torak?

- * bunskin trousers covered with old blood stains
- * frighteningly large bow and arrow (How would the wolf describe these?)
