NEWS

New café now open at Leyton Jubilee Park

Leyton Jubilee Park goes from strength to strength with a brand new café – Chicci – the latest addition to entice residents out in the sunshine

Last summer, residents living near Leyton Jubilee Park were asked what additional facilities they would like to see in the park. A resounding 68 per cent that responded to a consultation said they would like to see a café open.

So, the Council went out to tender and the successful bidders have been announced as Chicchi – a company that already operates two other cafés in East London. The proprietor of Chicchi, Metin Esen, spoke to Waltham Forest News about how excited he is to open his third outlet in Leyton Jubilee Park.

He said: "It's wonderful to branch out and to open somewhere a little different. The park is such a beautiful location and even while going through the process of getting the café set up and open we have had plenty of people eager to make use of the place.

"We offer a healthier range of options than your run of the mill greasy spoon – there's no fry-ups, but plenty of salads, pasta and freshly made sandwiches. We look forward to serving all you hungry and thirsty park users!"

The café will complement the other facilities at the park including the spectacular pirate play ship, outdoor gyms for adults and children, natural play equipment, play areas, football pitches, basketball court and pavilion.

The café shares the same area as the Eton Manor Athletics Club, close to the new bridge, sitting very much at the heart of Leyton Jubilee Park.

Building more homes

The Hammond Court development in Walthamstow was named in Inside Housing's Top 50 UK Affordable Housing Developments

The need for more homes is a subject that is constantly in the news and local authorities have a role to play in encouraging sustainable home-building in their boroughs.

Waltham Forest recently launched a four year housing partnership plan, which identified the Council's Preferred Housing Providers. At an event held on Friday 20 June, Housing Associations and private developers met with senior Council officers and the new Cabinet Member for Housing, Cllr Khevyn Limbajee.

The work the Council has been doing to facilitate regeneration

- Council launches partnership to encourage home-building in the borough
- Preferred Housing Providers chosen to help build more sustainable housing in the borough was outlined at the meeting, and the need for affordable and sustainable housing discussed.

The borough is bursting with potential and it is incredibly important that the growth and renewal in Waltham Forest is also reflected in the provision of top-quality housing. To assure that, the Council must work closely with those people who are looking to build here.

Earlier this year the Hammond Court development in Walthamstow, built by East Thames Housing Association, was named by Inside Housing in its Top 50 UK Affordable Housing Developments list and as one of the Top Five Sustainable Developments.

The eight organisations that make up the Preferred Housing Provider partnership for 2014-2018 are CBHA/Peabody, Circle Housing Group, East Thames, Family Mosaic, Home Group, North River Alliance, Lovell and Swan Housing Group.

In my opinion

Matthew McKeague

Trustee, Forest Recycling Project

There are many reasons to try and live more sustainably, and using Forest Recycling Project's (FRP) The Paint Place is one of the many small ways that you can help to combat climate change.

I'm a trustee of FRP, a local social enterprise and charity with environmental and social aims. We engage with organisations and communities in London through a range of practical initiatives to reduce, re-use and recycle waste and to help people live more sustainably.

Based just off Hoe Street in Walthamstow, we have been going since 1989. We're the grand old age of 25 this year, and all of our work and activities are supported by volunteers.

FRP sees 'waste paint' as a resource and an environmental problem that can be turned into a social and sustainable solution. More than 336 million litres of paint are sold in the UK each year (retail and trade), of which an estimated 50 million litres are unused and stored in homes, garages or sheds or just thrown away. That's the equivalent of enough paint to fill 20 Olympic-sized swimming pools – and a massive waste of resources.

The Paint Place is FRP's flagship paint re-use project. Residents can 'recycle' or donate any unwanted or surplus paint at three of Waltham Forest's Household Waste and Recycling Centres: Gateway Road, Leyton; Kings Road, Chingford and South Access Road, Walthamstow. The reclaimed paint is assessed, sorted and re-mixed if needed and then sold to residents via The Paint Place shop (2c Baker's Avenue, Walthamstow, E17 9AW) and to community groups and trade organisations through our paint warehouse (Unit 7, The Sidings, Leytonstone, E11 1HD) retailing from just £1 per litre.

The Paint Place shop is open to the public from Tuesday to Friday, 10am to 4pm and on Saturdays from 10am to 2pm. Our paint is available in all types, colours and sizes and because it costs considerably less than new paint, with a general saving of £5 per litre, you can decorate your home without spending a fortune.

If you've recently finished a project and want to donate leftover paint, remember to store it in a cool place and replace the lid firmly to prevent it from drying out. It can then be re-used elsewhere in the borough.

Lots of small actions like buying reclaimed paint can make a big difference to the planet and save you money at the same time.

You can find out more about FRP by visiting www.frponline.org.uk or phone 020 8539 3856.

Landlord licensing approved

- Selective Licensing scheme agreed by Council to tackle anti-social behaviour
- Bad landlords to be held to account for inaction against irresponsible tenants

On Tuesday 24 June it was agreed to introduce a Selective Licensing scheme in the borough next year to tackle anti-social behaviour issues in the area.

The decision was made by Waltham Forest Council's Cabinet, following a consultation which attracted over 1,500 responses from residents, landlords and tenants between November 2013 and January 2014. The Cabinet report reflected the strength of feeling in the borough and underlined the point that a strong link had been found between levels of anti-social behaviour and homes that are privately rented.

Representatives of local landlords' groups also attended the meeting, and in response to comments made during the consultation the Council reduced the number of conditions relating to the licence. It was also agreed that good landlords, who are fully compliant with the scheme, would be able to apply for reduced fee 'early bird' licences.

With the private rented sector making up one third of homes in the borough, the Council is committed to doing what it can to ensure that the homes are well managed as more and more residents rely upon these landlords for housing.

It will mean all of the borough's private landlords will have to apply for a licence and meet conditions such as obtaining references for new tenants before allowing them to rent their home. They will also have to take reasonable steps to prevent and deal with anti-social behaviour in their properties.

Cllr Khevyn Limbajee, Cabinet Member for Housing, told Waltham Forest News: "Selective Licensing is the best way to make sure landlords don't simply take the rent from irresponsible tenants and then turn their back on the problems they cause for their neighbours.

"Decent landlords are enthusiastic and understand the benefits of the scheme and recognise that the fee is likely to only equate to a few pounds a week. This is a small price to pay in order to bring rogue landlords into line and stop them sully the reputations of all good landlords in the borough.

"But more importantly it will mean bad landlords will have to stop their tenants from making the lives of some of our residents a misery – and that is a price well worth paying."

Unlawful eviction prosecution

Landlady Ogechi Anyanwu, and her niece Chanel Anyanwu, right, were found guilty of unlawful eviction and harassment

An aunt and niece who twice unlawfully evicted their pregnant tenant and her husband have been found guilty at Stratford Magistrates' Court after a case was brought by Waltham Forest Council and the local police.

On Wednesday 28 May, landlady Ogechi Anyanwu, 40, of Manford Court, Chigwell, and her niece Chanel Anyanwu, 22, of Cann Hall

Road, Leytonstone, were found guilty of unlawful eviction and harassment under Section 1 of the Protection from Eviction Act 1977.

The pair were sentenced on Tuesday 17 June and both women were given 80 hours' supervised community service and ordered to pay £250 costs and a £60 victim surcharge.

The hard work and diligence of Waltham Forest Council's Tenancy Relations Officer and her close work with the police saw them both visit the address on Monday 30 September last year and employ locksmiths to gain entry and change the locks.

This allowed the tenants, who had rented a first floor bedroom for four months, to re-enter the property. The landlady and her niece agreed to return to the address to meet police whereupon they were arrested.

The property owner, Ogechi Anyanwu, denied that the couple had been unlawfully evicted three days earlier, despite the locks being changed without their knowledge, trespassing in their room and removing their belongings with no notice.

Chanel Anyanwu, who also resided in the shared property, claimed to police that she had given the couple a valid notice to quit, suggesting they were lodgers, but during the hearing these claims were found to be false and other paperwork was discovered to be lacking. The tenants, a lady who was five months pregnant at the time and her husband, had suffered an earlier unlawful eviction on Sunday 15 September 2013.

This is a great result and a good example of partnership working between the Council and the police.

It sends a strong message to other landlords who believe that simply disregarding something as binding as an Assured Shorthold Tenancy is acceptable. Tenants should feel secure in their own home and not be made to suffer this sort of injustice.

4 Priorities

Keeping you and your family safe

Waltham Forest has four key priorities to help improve the lives of residents. In this edition we look at what is being done to make our community a safer place

Making you feel safe in Waltham Forest is a top priority for the Council and its strategic partners including the police and voluntary sector organisations.

Detecting and preventing crime not only makes the borough a safer and better place to live, work and visit; it also saves money for the 'public purse' in the long term.

There are a number of activities currently happening in the borough designed to crack down on criminal and anti-social behaviour.

Day of Action

The first in what will be an ongoing series of events, a 'Day of Action' took place in Leyton town centre on Thursday 3 July.

Focusing on problem street drinkers, littering and other environmental crimes – based on concerns raised by residents in the Leyton area – the day saw officers from the Council and police working side by side.

There were 160 enforcement activities carried out throughout the day and evening. This resulted in the police issuing two notices for drinking alcohol in an exclusion zone, while Council officers handed out nine trade waste notices, nine household waste presentation notices, two overgrown front garden notices, three litter clearance notices, five referrals to HM Revenues and Customs for offences including those involving breaches of new minimum alcohol pricing regulation. Five potential houses of multiple occupation (HMOs) were also identified. In addition, there was an offence under the Dangerous Dogs Act, with a person found to be walking a banned breed dog without a muzzle, collar or lead.

“Resident safety is our priority and we want people to report anything worrying to the Council or police, so we can take action.”

Council and police data was shared and analysed in a new approach that led to identifying and targeting key borough crime hotspots and addressing areas of concern with other partners.

Cllr Liaquat Ali MBE JP, Cabinet Member for Community Safety and Cohesion, told Waltham Forest News: “The Council is working closely with the police to target criminal activities in specific parts of the borough.

“Resident safety is our priority and we want people to come forward and report anything worrying to the Council or police immediately so we can take appropriate action.”

Following its success, the Day of Action initiative will be rolled out across the borough and will now take place on a monthly basis.

Residents can report anti-social behaviour, environmental crimes such as littering, fly-tipping and dog fouling and noise nuisance to the Council. (See more info section for details.)

Raising the alarm for community safety

Residents' safety is the most important thing for Neil Howard, Waltham Forest's CCTV Control Room and Services Manager.

With anything from 250 to 350 potential criminal incidents taking place locally every month, the 214 cameras that operate across the borough, and Neil's team, play a vital role.

The control room can spot anything from environmental crime to other forms of criminal activity taking place. Neil and his team are in constant contact with the police control centre in Bow, and with other emergency services, to report goings on and monitor potential crimes that can escalate.

Neil told Waltham Forest News: “We want everyone who lives, works and visits Waltham Forest to be in safe hands. Our aim is to detect and deter. We don't solve crimes, but we work closely with the police to help prevent them happening.”

Last year, CCTV evidence from the control room resulted in the capture of a gang who had carried out a cash in transit robbery – where locations holding large amounts of cash are targeted – on Hoe Street, Walthamstow. The gang had previously been involved in similar robberies around London.

Neil added: “Walthamstow Market, being the longest outdoor market in Europe and a busy area, is a particular hotspot that is monitored regularly by CCTV operatives.

“In 2012, we were the only Olympic host borough that was able to monitor the entire Olympic Torch Relay in our borough from start to finish. We'll be doing the same when the Tour De France comes here on Monday 7 July.”

The control room at Waltham Forest has a range of other purposes and is the Council's central alarm monitoring point for intruder, fire and panic alarms 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Interim Gang Injunction

A Chingford Hall resident, who cannot currently be named for legal reasons, has also just been issued with an Interim Gang Injunction.

The man, who is alleged to be a key member in a known gang, is being accused of intimidation and harassment towards other residents.

A full hearing, attended by the Council and Waltham Forest police, will take place in September at the West London County Court in Hammersmith.

Until then, the defendant is not allowed to do a number of things – including threatening violence, causing damage to homes or belongings and verbally abusing people – or encourage anyone else to carry out these actions on his behalf.

Cllr Liaquat Ali MBE JP, Cabinet Member for Community Safety and Cohesion, said: “We know that people can be very afraid of this kind of anti-social behaviour and we would like to reassure them that we are doing all we can to tackle it.

“We are taking a two pronged approach – working with the police on cases like this, and then working with young people through our Enough is Enough programme to encourage them to choose a lifestyle away from gang activity and culture.”

What you say

Residents tell Waltham Forest News what they think about the Council's work to make our community a safer place

Hamet Yasar, Walthamstow

"I've worked in a local shop for six months and it's always been safe here. We have CCTV, of course, which is necessary nowadays, and can stop crime. I feel that Waltham Forest is a safe place to live and work in. I used to work in another shop in the borough for nine years and never had any problems. I think there should be more cameras though to deter crime and it's good that there are many CCTV cameras in the borough."

Leonard Hutchinson, Leytonstone

"I've lived in the borough since 1971 and I've always felt safe here and there have been no problems at all. I love living here and that's why I've stayed for 40 odd years. Having said that, and now that I'm older too, I think CCTV is needed here. It's important in this day and age to be able to stay safe as there's a lot of crime out there and you never know when it can come your way."

Agnieszka Szymanska, Walthamstow

"I like living in Waltham Forest and I do feel it's very safe most of the time for myself and my child. Generally, there are no problems at all, however, three years ago, someone did steal a purse from me, which had some cash and my travel card in it, but since then it's been fine. I think it would be better if we had more police on the streets, I'd feel safer knowing they were there."

Shirley Hurley, Leytonstone

"I've lived in Waltham Forest for 36 years now and I think we should definitely have more police on the streets. Unfortunately, I've been mugged myself in Leytonstone. I reported it to the police and they were very good, but the muggers were never caught, the last time was two years ago. I don't think it is safe anywhere nowadays. We definitely need more CCTV too – those cameras should be on every road. I do worry when I'm out, however, I now go out with my husband and I feel much safer."

Tanisha Elmaz, Walthamstow

"I've lived in Wood Street with my family since I can remember and I do feel it's a really safe area. I don't think we need any more police on the streets and no more CCTV either, it's a bit like Big Brother otherwise."

Priority: Making our community a safer place

Commitment:

- Continue to pay for extra police officers
- Work with our young people at risk of joining gangs to make sure they have a positive alternative
- Create an anti-social behaviour task force to tackle anti-social behaviour throughout the borough
- Target bad landlords and support good ones

Priority: Helping you and your family

Priority: Keeping our borough clean

Priority: Bringing you better shopping, streets and leisure

NAME & SHAME

DON'T MESS WITH WALTHAM FOREST

Waltham Forest Council is committed to cleaning up the borough and wiping out enviro-crime. We will be taking tough action against those people who continue to blight our borough, and will name and shame the people we catch.

Dumping waste in the street is just one of the areas the Council looks to address and last month an individual felt the full force of the law when Council officers discovered waste dumped on the highway.

Naveed Fayaz of Clifton Avenue, Walthamstow was prosecuted for a Duty of Care offence after allowing waste from his garage business to be dumped in Folly Lane, Higham Hill.

The matter was put before Thames Magistrates' Court on Tuesday 10 June and a fine of £300 was handed down with the defendant also ordered to pay costs of £300.

In June there were also 134 Fixed Penalty Notices (FPNs) issued in Waltham Forest, 21 of which were for littering offences which included seven for urinating in the street.

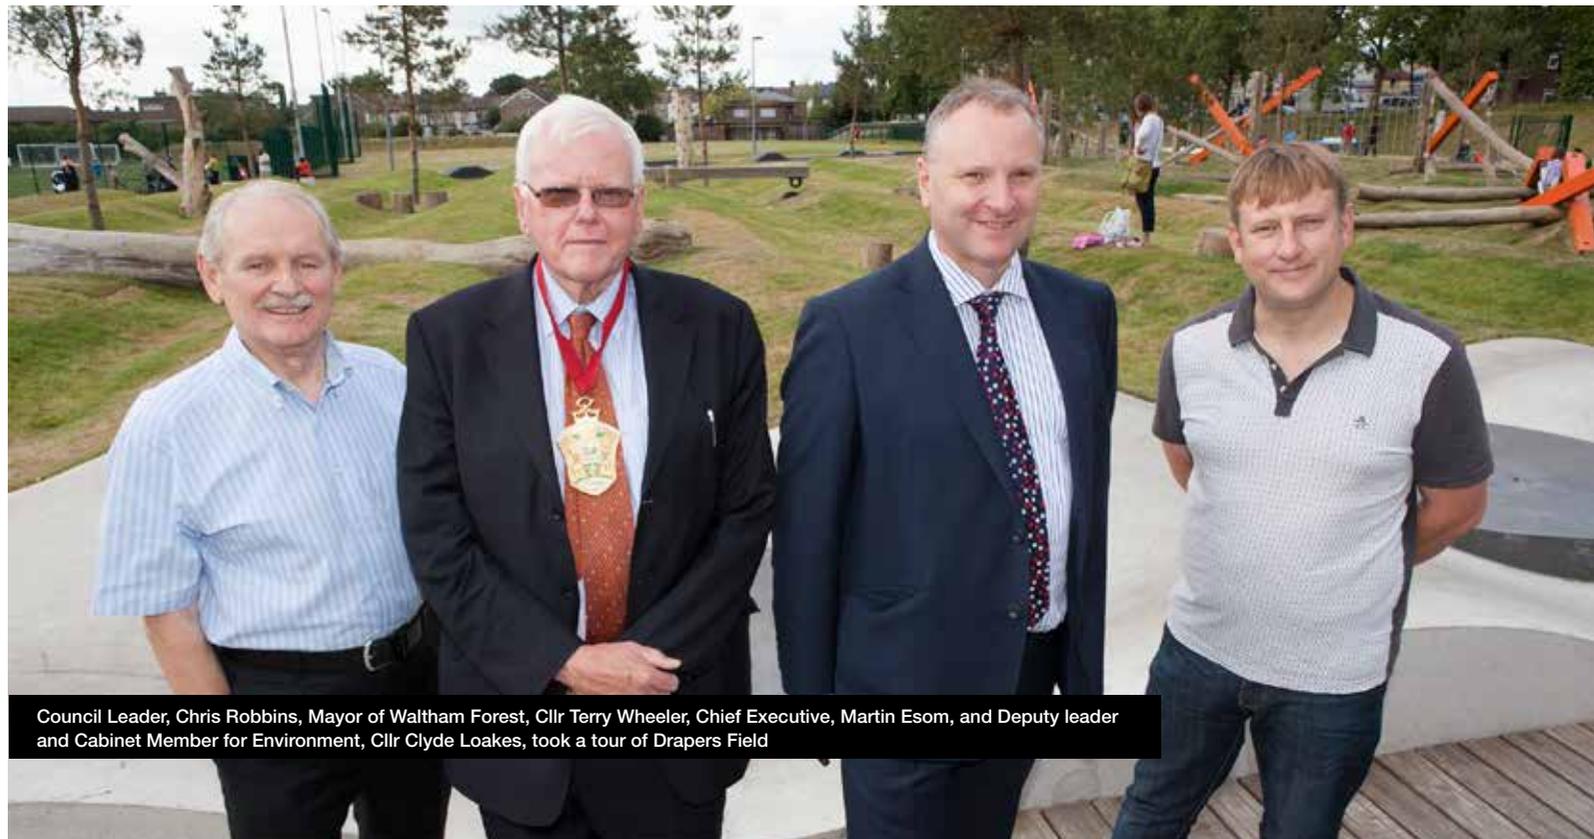

"In Waltham Forest we have outlawed spitting and urination by specifically making them offences we tackle via our littering powers," said Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment.

"It's been 18 months since we brought these offences under the umbrella of enviro-crimes that we pursue people for and hand out FPNs. The message is simple – don't mess with Waltham Forest.

"It should go without saying that spitting or urinating in the street is simply unacceptable. The difference is in this borough we will do something about it if we catch you and it will cost you dearly."

Council Leader, Chris Robbins, Mayor of Waltham Forest, Cllr Terry Wheeler, Chief Executive, Martin Esom, and Deputy leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, Cllr Clyde Loakes, took a tour of Drapers Field

Drapers Field is open for play!

Creating a better place
Better High Streets • Better Leisure • Better Schools • Better Housing

- New-look Drapers Field is transformed by Olympic money
- Fantastic facilities provide residents with a real legacy from the Olympic Games

The £2million refurbishment of Drapers Field is complete, providing Waltham Forest residents with a brand new first-class park and sports facility.

A new 3G all-weather sport pitch, junior natural turf football pitch, new play facilities, cycling proficiency course, new landscaping and refurbishment to the southern sports pavilion have all been introduced. The landscape of the site has also been transformed, greatly improving accessibility to the site, with a new pathway connecting to the new bridge into the Olympic Park at Temple Mills Lane.

On Wednesday 25 June the new Mayor of Waltham Forest, Cllr Terry Wheeler, Chief Executive Martin Esom, Council Leader Chris Robbins and Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, Cllr Clyde Loakes, went down to see what all the fuss is about.

"It's a wonderful place, packed with local people – young and old – enjoying everything from the water fountains to the table tennis, not to mention the football," said Chris Robbins.

"Anyone who wants to see something tangible and lasting that the Olympic and Paralympic Games has brought to this borough as a legacy should get themselves down here. It's fantastic."

Drapers Field was temporarily leased to the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) in September 2011. After the Games, the temporary facilities were dismantled and the site cleared and handed back to the Council.

Prior to its use by the ODA, Drapers Field had an all-weather pitch and large playing field, whereas it now has radically improved facilities that the people of Leyton and beyond will benefit from.

It was very important to the Council that the design of Drapers Field would not only encourage walking and cycling in the local area, but also improve connections with the Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park, East Village, Stratford City and Chobham Academy.

The funding for the improvements has come via the Leyton Open Spaces Investment Programme, using money provided by the ODA through contributions known as Section 106 monies. When new developments happen, those responsible are usually asked to pay a contribution towards the funding of associated infrastructure – commonly known as Section 106 agreements.

The refurbishments at Drapers Field are a vast improvement on the site's old facilities, both in quality and quantity. The facilities and layout of the new-look Drapers Field were also agreed with local people.

In March and June 2011 residents were given a chance to have their say and to influence the look and feel of the green space. The designs to come from these events struck a balance of formal and informal sport; as well as play, recreation and community facilities, based on what people had said.

Some of the elements of the scheme also relate to the Council's broader Open Spaces Strategy. This identified that in this part of Leyton there is a lack of play and local open space. The reinstatement of the all-weather pitch is also a response to many of the comments picked up in the consultations and by Sport England, who noted that there were simply not enough of these sorts of facilities in this part of the borough.

As well as the improvements to Drapers Field other areas to have benefited from Olympic and Paralympic Games Legacy initiatives include Leyton Jubilee Park, the tennis courts and pavilion at Abbots Park, and the provision of a Multi-Use Games Area (MUGA) at Church Lane, Leytonstone.

On the road to recovery

- Extra funding secured for additional road repairs
- Pothole money will help repair the damage done by bad weather

The newly-resurfaced Billet Road, Walthamstow

While last winter was fairly mild, recent harsh winters have taken their toll on the borough's roads. But fortunately in Waltham Forest work petitioning for funds to address the issue has paid off.

Two significant windfalls will help fund major resurfacing and pothole repairs. The Council successfully applied to the Department for Transport (DfT) for the money from a pot known as 'Funding for Winter Damage'.

This is funding above the usual amounts of money available to councils for road maintenance schemes. It is specifically set aside to deal with the consequences of exceptional winter weather damage.

The Council's Highways department will spend the money on three different schemes in the borough. A total of £80,000 will be spent on Argall Avenue in Leyton, £150,000 will be spent on Whipps Cross Road in Leytonstone and £110,000 will be spent on Billet Road in Walthamstow.

In addition to this, further funding is coming to Waltham Forest from a pot known as 'The Pothole Fund'. A grant of £249,721 will help reduce the number of potholes affecting local roads and a programme of work including pothole repairs and preventative maintenance is being prepared for the 2014/15 financial year.

Cllr Clyde Loakes, Deputy Leader and Cabinet Member for Environment, said: "This is great news for the residents and I'm glad that the government awarded us this extra funding. At a time when our budgets are being squeezed more than ever, we have really punched above our weight to secure this money and come out a lot better than many of our neighbouring boroughs.

"This funding will allow us to really get to grips with potholes and other defects on our highways, supplementing our existing programme of road maintenance and allowing us to make the streets safer, more pleasant to use and more visually pleasing."

You can report a problem with the surface of a road or pavement via an online form on the Council's website.

In brief

Mouldy prawns were found at an industrial unit in Leyton

Filthy business

A food business located in an industrial unit in Roxwell Business Park, Argall Avenue, Leyton was shut on Wednesday 25 June by Waltham Forest Council's Environmental Health Team. The closure was ordered after an inspection revealed cooked catfish and prawns being stored at inappropriate temperatures. The inspector described the place as 'absolutely filthy and squalid', after discovering a makeshift kitchen with ovens resting on wooden pallets and that had no preparation surfaces or fridge. Some of the cooked prawns were mouldy and there was also an infestation of flies at the premises.

Chingford

Shoppers enjoyed the first-ever Love North Chingford Market on Saturday 28 June. Photo by Tony Cullinane www.tonycullinanephotography.com

Shoppers love North Chingford

- New market proves a huge success with local shoppers
- Love North Chingford champions independent businesses

Thousands of local people enjoyed the sights, sounds and smells of a brand new street market in Chingford on Saturday 28 June.

Thirty stalls were set up along the length of Station Road, offering shoppers everything from handcrafted gifts and home furnishings to tasty street food, footwear and clothing. Local wedding photographer Tony Cullinane was also on hand to take photos of the market's maiden outing.

The new monthly market is organised by a not-for-profit group called Love North Chingford, which has brought together local business owners. The group was set up to champion the independently owned businesses found along Station Road and encourage more residents to shop locally.

As well as the market, Chingford was also bustling with people attending the ever-popular Chingford Festival – a community event organised by local resident Irene Bull – which took place on the same day on The Green, Chingford.

Katie Spanjar, Joint Secretary of Love North Chingford and owner of Bar One Twenty, told Waltham Forest News: "We were absolutely delighted with how successful the first market proved to be.

"We held it in conjunction with the Chingford Festival and it proved to be a brilliant day, with lots of people out enjoying themselves and seeing all that the local area has to offer.

"At first people assumed that the market was part of the festival, but by the end of the day we had spread the word that the market would be coming to Chingford each month. I think people are already looking forward to the idea of it happening regularly, and residents were even suggesting what kind of stalls they'd like to see in future."

Love North Chingford started as a shopkeeper's alliance, with business owners and shopkeepers sharing ideas about how they could increase trade.

Around a quarter of the businesses along Station Road are now on board, and pay an annual fee to cover the cost of equipment, advertising and printing. As the organisation is not-for-profit, each member gets to have their say.

Love North Chingford Market will take place on the fourth Saturday of every month until the end of the year. The final market of 2014 will be a special Christmas market, set to take place on Saturday 20 December.

The market is being organised by local resident Roger Salmons, who successfully ran Broadway Market in Hackney for many years.

Katie Spanjar said: "It is absolutely brilliant that we've got someone with Roger's experience on board, as it sped up the process. Without his expertise it would have taken us a lot longer to get the market up and running.

"Everything ran really smoothly and response from visitors was absolutely brilliant, and beyond our expectations. Several of the street food vendors completely sold out of stock, as well as a stall which was selling sandals."

The organisers are keen to hear from other local people who might be interested in setting up their own stall on the monthly market. However, they are not looking for extra food stalls as that is something that is already well-represented among the existing group.

Katie explained: "I know that the borough is full of talented people, for example those who craft and make fabulous, original gifts and items for the home. If anyone has been thinking about turning a hobby into a business this could be the perfect opportunity to turn a dream into a reality.

"There are many local people who could run a stall, and we're really keen to hear ideas for new stalls at future markets."

WE'RE PROUD OF YOU

Education continues to be a top priority in Waltham Forest. We expect that over 90 per cent of our schools will be rated 'Good' or 'Outstanding' by Ofsted by the summer of 2015 and that standards will continue to rise in all schools.

Over the last few months we have been celebrating the achievements of our young people and our schools. Now we have turned the focus to the great teachers who have inspired, supported and motivated our children to aim high and reach their goals.

Read more about two of our teachers and their students here.

Ms Blake, Class Teacher

Every child deserves a positive start in life. My job as a teacher is to prepare children to leave primary school with greater independence, knowledge and skills.

I have a passion to motivate, inspire and support every child I teach to reach their potential. School is like home from home where a supportive atmosphere has been created by the children, parents and staff.

Adam, Year 6

Ms Blake knows all the students in our class well and she knows what each one of us is capable of. She is a really good artist and she is funny too.

Our teachers support us and encourage us to be the best that we can be. I try to achieve my best by listening and working towards my goal.

Ms Graham, Class Teacher

The ethos that every child is important and the team approach that we take to children's learning is what I value the most about teaching in Waltham Forest.

Getting to know each child's personality and being enthusiastic about what I am teaching are the vital elements in helping children to achieve their best.

Seeing children smile when they have finally understood something or achieved a goal are my favourite moments.

David, Year 3

Ms Graham is special because she helped me to learn a lot in year two. I really enjoyed it when we went to the Natural History Museum. It was great fun and I really learnt a lot from going there.

Here comes the fun!

- Waltham Forest's youngest residents can look forward to a fun-packed summer
- More than forty schools will be open and offering hundreds of activities for young people

With the school holidays just around the corner, parents and carers may well be looking for affordable and fun ways to keep their children entertained for six weeks and the Council's Summer Daze activities are designed to help you do just that.

With a range of sports and arts activities on offer to keep everyone active and happy, children can also make the most of their time off by visiting the borough's parks and play areas, libraries, leisure centres and museums. In conjunction with the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation, Leyton Orient Trust and X7eaven Performing Arts, the Council will be providing an action packed holiday programme, appealing to youngsters of all ages.

As part of its pledge to help families, the Summer Daze scheme is offering all young people up to the age of 19, and young people with disabilities up to the age of 25, a huge range of free and low cost activities.

The borough's libraries will host a great range of programmes including the Summer Reading Challenge 2014 in July with a Mythical Maze theme, featuring some mythological creatures given a modern twist. The newly revamped Leyton Library will be hosting an epic session for children and adults alike with a modern reworking of Homer's classic tale 'Odyssey', will the hero make it back to Ithaca? Turn up to find out.

There's a chance to dress up and take part in the Rant and Rave sessions in Higham Hill and Wood Street libraries on Friday 25 July. Meanwhile, Lego lovers will enjoy the ever popular Bricks and Tricks workshops and for the more adventurous, creepy crawlies will pay a visit too, courtesy of staff from Suntrap Environmental Education Centre.

Council Leader, Chris Robbins, told Waltham Forest News: "There's a huge array of events on offer this summer, whether you want to get creative, learn another skill, get sporty or just have a laugh with friends, there's something for you and plenty more. Now's the time to get motivated and see if you have a hidden talent – try out something new and find out."

In Chingford, Ridgeway Park's popular train rides will transport families on Wednesday afternoons from 1pm to 4pm throughout the summer and the swashbuckling pirate ship at Leyton Jubilee Park promises to keep youngsters entertained for hours.

For the art and history buffs out there, the William Morris Gallery, which has just been boosted by additional funding from the Arts Council and the Vestry House Museum, promises to inspire everyone who visits.

For sporty types, the free disability multi-sports and swimming at Waltham Forest Pool and Track in Chingford Road and Leyton Orient Sports Community Centre promise to deliver a packed schedule.

In addition, master classes at secondary schools will focus primarily on academic subjects, which will help inspire students looking towards higher education.

Previously, for the Easter Daze programme in April, there was positive feedback from families with 100 per cent of all primary school children saying that participating in the activities made them happy and 92 per cent rating the disability programme as good and excellent.

There was also encouraging words for the multi sports and performing arts programme, with one parent adding: "I enjoyed seeing the performance and how it helped my daughter's confidence grow."

Leytonstone Arts Trail 2014

The Leytonstone Arts Trail is back for its seventh year, and this year a handy new app will help guide visitors around the 26 venues. You can access the app, which gives more information about participating artists and venues, on the interactive screen found in Church Lane. The trail runs from Friday 4 July to Sunday 13 July and art will be displayed in cafes, shops, pubs, studios, galleries, homes, parks and gardens. There will be special events and activities to keep the whole family happy, including children's art workshops at the Epicentre (41 West Street, E11 4LJ), a pop-up market at the Luna Lounge (7 Church Lane, E11 1HG) and life drawing taster sessions at St Andrew's Church (St Andrew's Road, E11 1JD). You can pick up a trail guide from the Stone Space or from Leytonstone Library (both found at 6 Church Lane, E11 1HG). Local residents are also encouraged to fill their windows and front gardens with their own art during the trail. The 'Let's fill Leytonstone with art' project began five years ago when trail organiser Hilary Douse asked neighbours to display arts in their windows and the idea gradually spread throughout the area. Paintings, knitting, photos, ceramics, paper crafts and textiles have all been exhibited in windows in past years.

International Evening hailed a success

An International Evening held at Downsell Primary School, Leyton on Thursday 26 June was judged a resounding success by pupils, parents and teachers alike. The event was part of a school-wide project about respecting rights and a celebration of the fantastic mix of nationalities, cultures, ethnicities and religions represented within the school. The evening included performances from different nationalities including Caribbean dancing, Tai Chi, Arabic and Bollywood performances, Irish and Mauritian dancing, Bhangra, Dhaanto from Somalia and sensational drumming. Headteacher, Terrence Nairne told Waltham Forest News: "This was a great event that helped the children to enjoy and respect other cultures. Parents loved it too, many have asked us when the next one will be." The evening was brought to a rousing climax by the school choir who had the audience singing and dancing and eating from the palm of their hand. Parents commented that they had all enjoyed an excellent evening and could not wait for the next one.

Challenging the national issue of FGM

- Waltham Forest resident speaks out against FGM injustices
- New organisation aims to end violence against women and girls in Waltham Forest

Local resident, Hibo Wardere, is championing the rights of young girls and breaking the taboo over the national and international issue of female genital mutilation (FGM).

The 45-year old teaching assistant, who works at a local primary school is spearheading a local campaign to speak out against FGM and challenge the government's child protection policy to protect those girls who may be affected by it, in primary and secondary schools.

Already, it seems that her strong message has reached residents and is also resonating on a wider scale. Hibo, who is originally from Somalia, has been invited by the Department for International Development to meet 2,000 other dignitaries from around the world on Tuesday 22 July at the first ever Girls Summit in London. The summit will look at the topics of FGM and forced marriage. Prime Minister, David Cameron, will also be attending.

Having lived in Waltham Forest since 1989 with her husband and children, Hibo was the victim of FGM at the age of seven and sometimes she still has flashbacks to that awful time.

Hibo said: "Talking about FGM and putting it on the national agenda is not attacking a community, it's actually protecting the child. I would love to go to every school in Waltham Forest and talk about FGM to the girls. It's very relevant because if it's happened to a girl or her friends, she would need access to the right help and support."

There are complex cultural and social reasons why FGM happens and it can lead to serious health complications for the individuals involved. Although the practice is illegal in the UK and can carry a custodial sentence of up to 14 years in prison, it is still practised in around 28 countries around the world. There are 22,000 reported cases in London alone and 66,000 in the UK.

There are complex cultural and social reasons why FGM happens, and it can lead to serious health complications for the individuals involved.

Last year, Hibo was invited to talk to more than 100 teachers, teaching assistants and other staff at Davies Lane Primary School, Leytonstone, about the subject of FGM.

She was also invited by Cllr Coghill, former Cabinet Member for Children and Young People, and now Cabinet Member for Economic Growth and High Streets, to speak at a recent event held at Waltham Forest Town Hall. Hibo spoke to residents and Council staff about her experiences.

Earlier this year, the organisation Waltham Forest Rising was set up by Cllr Coghill to raise awareness of violence against women and girls, including FGM, and to help support those people affected by these issues.

Despite the serious subject matter, Hibo's lively personality shines through. She added: "In this borough, people are willing to listen to you and Waltham Forest is enriched with people from diverse backgrounds, who say hello all the time. However, I'd like to get other boroughs involved too."

Hibo's inspiration is the actress Angelina Jolie and she is motivated by her humanitarian work to end war zone sexual violence.
